

Children of the Earth

We are all the children of {In:Mother Earth}. All life on this planet is Earth's offspring. We were all raised here together, evolving into all the species of creatures that exist here today.