Drug Addiction

The Church of Reality takes the position that becoming a drug addict is a really bad idea. This includes both legal and illegal drugs. Drug laws are intended to prevent people from destroying their lives due to the devastating effects that drug addiction has on the individual. One would think that if everyone though things through that no one would choose to become a drug addict. However drug addiction is a prevelent problem in society and often drug addicts are hurmful not just to themselves but to society in general.
