

Living in the Truth

Living in the Truth means that you have taken control of your {In:Life Story} and that you have dedicated yourself to the Realist way of thinking. Living in the Truth is the actual practice of Realist principles. It's more than just "believing in reality" it's fully embracing doubt, expanding your curiosity about things, experiencing the desire to understand everything.

Living in the Truth means that you really really believe in reality. That you don't have a {In:Golden Calf} in your closet that you secretly worship. It means that you no longer throw virgins into volcanoes. It's when your past life is remembering when you believed in past lives.