America leading the world on path to self destruction

Edict Date: 08-21-2011

Today the Church of Reality is issuing a warning to the United States of America that taking a path to self destruction is a really bad idea. The government of America has become critically dysfunctional. If this trend doesn't reverse itself America will cease to exist and will no longer be a part of reality.

It is easier to destroy a nation that it is to build one. It is easier to be angry in the short term that it is to take responsibility. It is easier to hate government than it is to create a government that works. But if you continue to turn your back on reality, eventually reality will turn its back on you. We, as a world community have no choice but to either embrace reality or we will cease to exist.

America has become a system of government though hostage taking. Those who want to destroy the government or want to protect the income of their constituency will block something vital to society until they get their way. And the current administration is to weak to stand up to them.

Humans have evolved strength through cooperation. When we work together we are stronger and when society fails we are weaker. America is fracturing and falling apart and as a result America has put itself on a patch to self destruction. We are on a path to extinction. And because America is currently the world's economic and military powerhouse we are putting humanity itself at risk.
