

The Database of Life

The accumulation of all raw information accessible to the public. This used to mean libraries but now it's the information on the Internet.